Gillow Archives (Microfilm)

Description

Identifier: Main Collection 4/0361

Dates: 1731-1932

Extent: 101 microfilm reels

Scope and Content: Microfilm created from the Gillows of Lancaster, later Waring and Gillow, furniture makers archive collection held by Westminster Archives around 1971. Although they are incomplete, the collection is thought to be the one of the longest and largest collection of records by a cabinet markers firm.

The microfilms include the following series in the original collection:

- GWG/0344: Gillows of Lancaster, later Waring and Gillow, furniture makers
  - GWG/0344/1: Financial Records (Reels 1-39)
  - GWG/0344/2: Order books and Financial Records (Reels 40-43)
  - GWG/0344/3: Estimate sketch books (Reels 44-78)
  - GWG/0344/4: Other Sketchbooks (Reels 79-83)
  - GWG/0344/5: Administrative records (Reels 83-100)
- GWG/0735: Gillows of Lancaster, furniture makers

The microfilm does not include items with the finding numbers 0344/191 to 0344/195. Later accessions now held by Westminster Archives, presumably received at a later date, are not included in the microfilm collection.

This list also includes additional index of the microfilm reels.

History: Gillows of Lancaster and London, also known as Gillow & Co., was a furniture making firm based in Lancaster and London. The company was one of the leading British cabinet-making firms of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries.

It was founded by Robert Gillow (1704-1772) around 1728. Robert was born in Great Singleton, Lancashire. In 1721, he was apprenticed to John Robinson, a joiner in Lancaster. He became a freeman of Lancaster set up his own cabinet making business. He was briefly in partnership George Haresnape between 1731-1735. He entered the West Indies trade as a merchant in 1741 and imported mahogany wood from the region. He also was involved in Baltic trade from 1742.

His eldest son, Richard Gillow (1733-1811) was apprenticed to an architect in London in the 1750s. In 1753, he was sent by his father on a voyage to Barbados. He became a freeman of Lancaster and joined his father as an equal partner of Robert Gillow & Son in 1757. Richard became the prime mover in the firm and by 1770 had established a shop in Oxford Street, London. The firm had workshops in both Lancaster and London. Richard's brother, Robert Gillow became the senior London partner in 1776. By the end of the 18th century, the firm was one of the leading cabinet makers in Britian.

By 1813, the firm was transferred to the next generation who sold the firm as Gillows & Co ti Leonard Redmayne, Whiteside, and Ferguson. By 1897, the firm was in partnership with Warings of Liverpool and began to operate as Waring and Gillows Ltd. The new firm opened branches in Paris, Madrid and Brussels. The firm later became Waring and Gillow (1932) Ltd.

After World War II, the furniture manufacture business had begun to decline. In 1953, the business was bought by Great Universal Stores. A large share of the business was sold to the furniture chain, John Peters. John Peters Company was subsequently renamed Waring and Gillow (Holdings) Ltd in 1960. The company ceased furniture manufacture, and the Lancaster workshops were closed in 1962.

From 1980, Waring and Gillow began to buy shares in the rival company, Maple & Co, and in the process the company became Maple, Waring and Gillow. In 1988, Allied Carpets purchased most of the companies remaining retail stores and the company became part of Allied Maples Group Ltd.

The archives of the firm were given to the City of Westminster Archives Centre. The collection was microfilmed in the early 1970s, and a copy was acquired by the Lancaster University Library in 1971.

Conditions on access: The microfilm is available for use in the main collection of the University of Lancaster Library.

Conditions on Use: The microfilm is the copyright of Westminster Archives.
